Introducing Our New Interiors Team

We are proud to announce the launch of a dedicated Interior Architecture and Interior Design team at INVVU, created in partnership with EJ Curated Interiors.

This expansion marks a significant step in our evolution, one that allows us to offer a truly integrated, end-to-end design service, where structure, architecture, engineering, and interior experience come together under one roof.

Our new interior team sits fully within our existing architectural and engineering studio, creating a genuinely cohesive offer across every stage of your project.

The result is a seamless, one-stop service: your project understood from every angle, coordinated from the outset, and delivered by a team that is aligned, communicative, and working as one.

You will also benefit from a single point of contact throughout, ensuring clarity, continuity, and a smooth journey from concept to completion.

Our Interior Architecture and Interior Design services span the full project lifecycle, from feasibility and concept through to site implementation, across a wide range of sectors, including Residential, Retail, Commercial, Leisure, and Infrastructure.

Whether you are working on a private home, commercial office, accommodation facility, conference centre, or something beyond the conventional, we are here to bring it to life.

Alkim Naz Koroglu

Interior / Spatial Designer - INVVU

Alkim Naz Koroglu is our Interior and Spatial Designer — a rare talent who moves fluently between creative vision and technical precision. Her experience spans international construction sites, furniture workshops, and design studios, giving her an exceptionally grounded, hands-on understanding of how great interiors are truly conceived and built.

Holding a degree in Interior Architecture and Environmental Design and a Master's in Interior Design, her academic foundations are as strong as her creative instincts. A background in drawing, painting, and ceramics brings a deeply material-led, artistic sensibility to everything she touches — from the earliest spatial concepts through to the finest details.

Alkim also produces stunning visualisations that bring projects vividly to life, working across an impressive suite of software, including Photoshop, Rhinoceros, Lumion, and 3DS Max.

Her imagery doesn't just illustrate a design; it tells its story, capturing atmosphere, texture, and intent with a level of craft that sets her work apart.

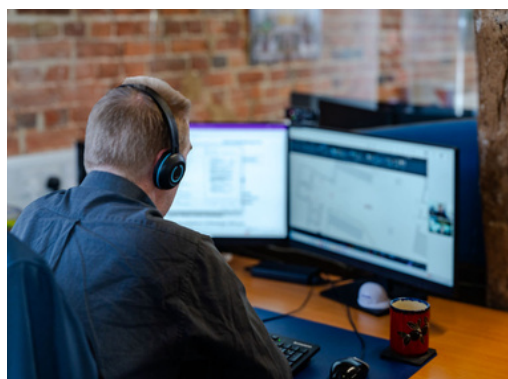

INVVU is a multidisciplinary construction consultancy delivering project and design management, architecture, civil and structural engineering, MEP design, surveys and site investigations as one integrated team. We don't just manage projects — we own them alongside you, guiding every decision from first sketch to final build with solutions that are buildable, coordinated and technically robust.

Our Architectural team brings experience across a broad range of sectors — residential, mixed-use, commercial, education, healthcare and community spaces. We're designers who love what we do.

Our philosophy is simple: architecture should work beautifully — for the people who use it, the teams who build it, and the communities it sits within. There's no back-and-forth between disconnected consultants — just architects, engineers, surveyors and project managers working as one, catching problems early and finding smarter solutions faster.

Our Architectural Interiors and Interior Design team brings that same care and attention inside the building. From spatial planning and concept design through to material selection, lighting strategies and finishing specifications, we shape interiors that feel considered, cohesive and completely aligned with the architecture around them. Because our teams sit side by side, the conversation between inside and out happens naturally — no disconnect between the shell and the soul of a building.

Across all sectors, we're known for responsiveness, clear communication and practically-minded, technically strong delivery. The result? Interiors and architecture that don't just look right — they feel right, perform right, and are genuinely deliverable.

Emma Johnson

Director - EJ Curated Interiors

Emma is a highly experienced Interior Designer with a strong background in delivering considered, high-quality interiors across residential, commercial, and retail environments. Her work is defined by a refined design sensibility, a deep understanding of materials, space, and detail, and a clear focus on translating creative vision into beautifully executed, practical outcomes.

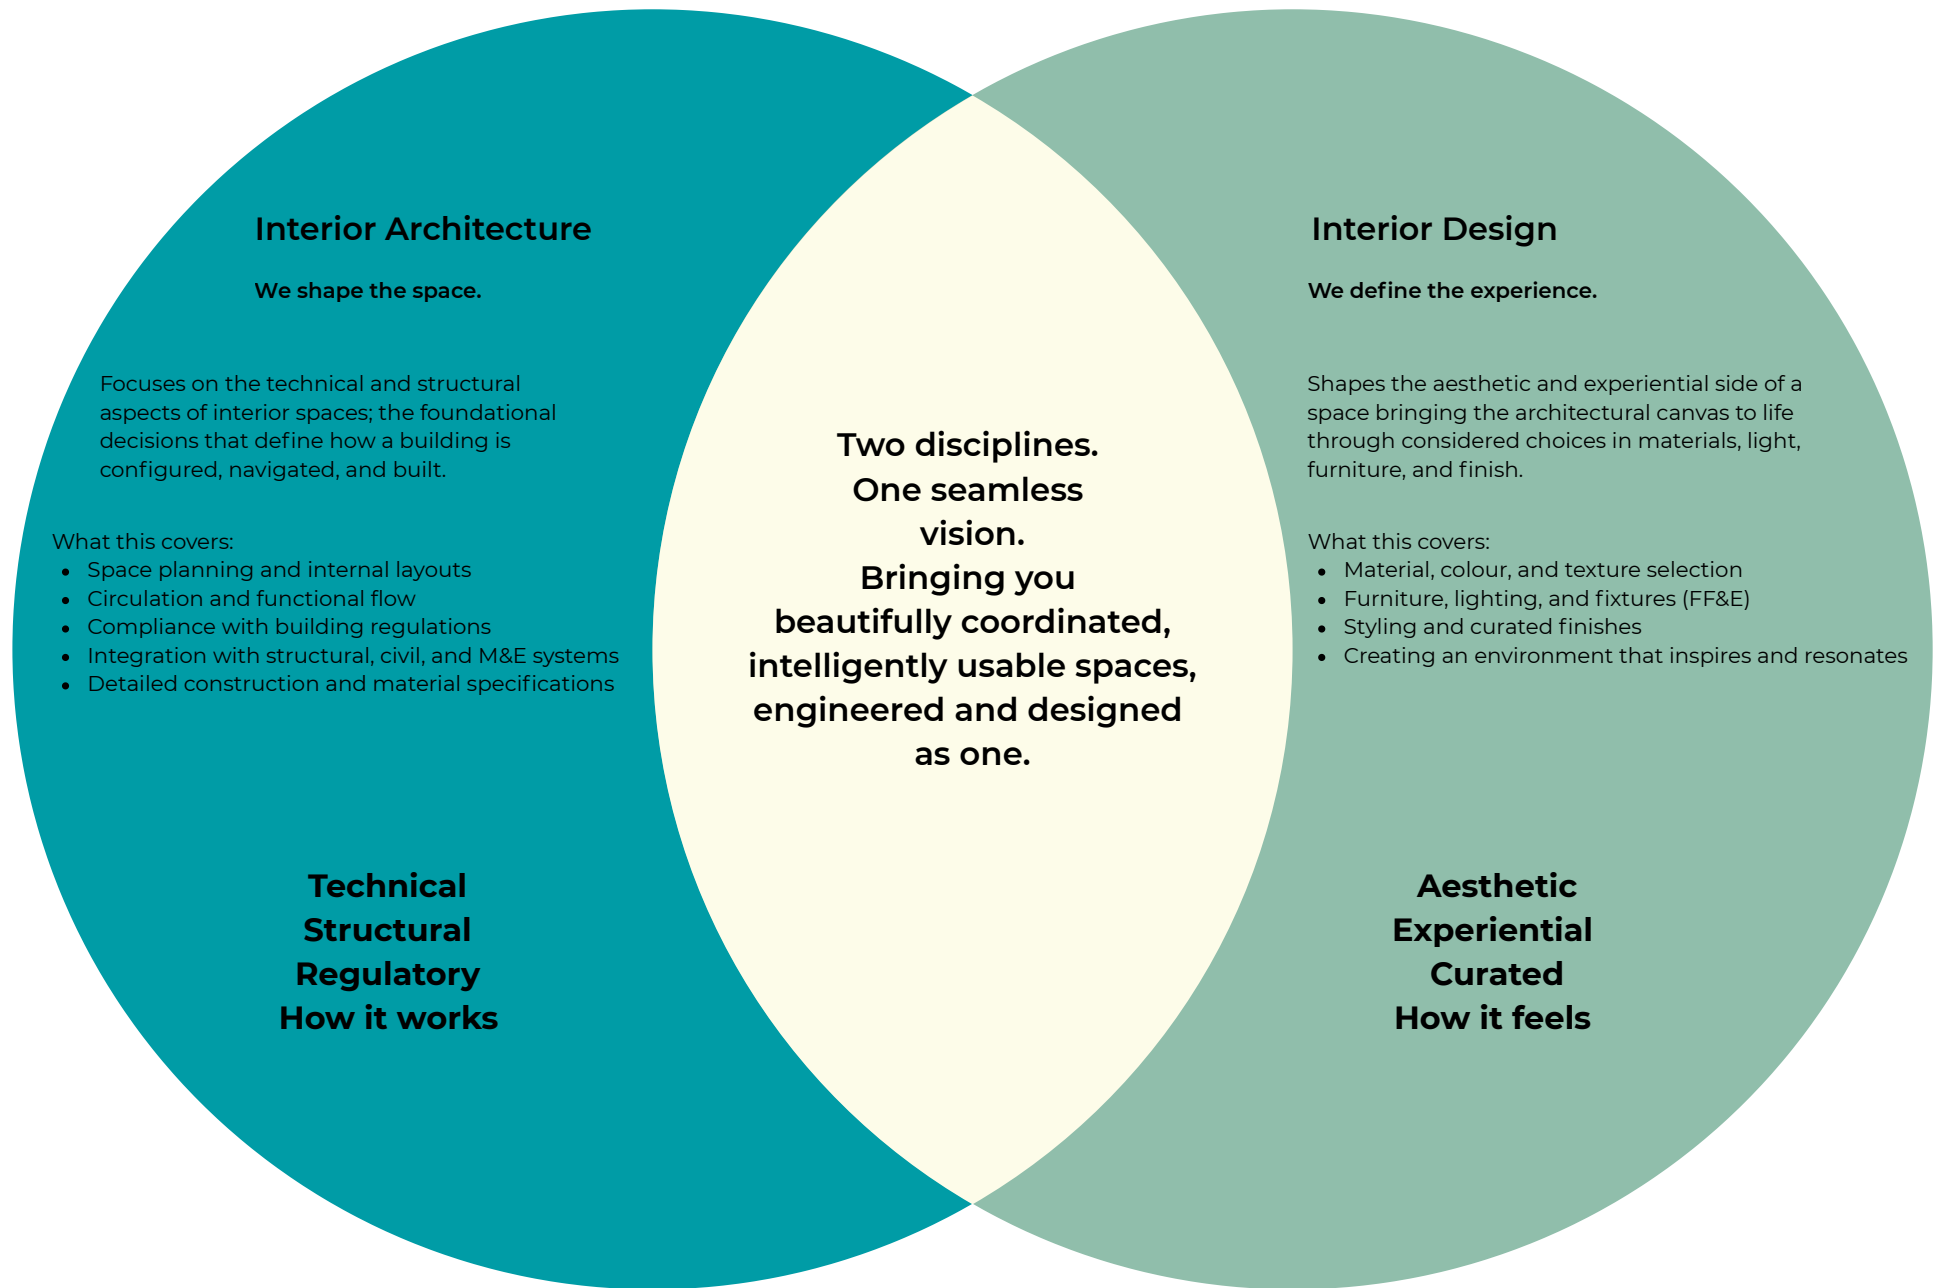

Emma completed her Diploma in Interior Design with the Interior Design Institute in 2021, underpinning her extensive practical experience with formal training in spatial planning, specification, and interior detailing.

Alongside her consultancy work, Emma brings valuable experience from working closely with manufacturers on construction-led projects, giving her a robust technical understanding of products, detailing, and installation. This allows her to work seamlessly alongside contractors, architects, and suppliers, ensuring design intent is maintained through to delivery and that aesthetics are balanced with buildability, programme, and commercial reality.

Emma also has significant experience in high-end retail across the UK and Europe, where she led merchandising, spatial layouts, and new store openings — coordinating fit-outs, implementing brand standards, and delivering engaging customer environments to exacting quality standards. This background has sharpened her eye for composition, flow, and finish, and her ability to perform in fast-paced, deadline-driven settings.

With a career combining creative expertise, technical knowledge, and hands-on delivery experience, Emma brings a calm, professional, and solutions-focused approach to every project — adding value through thoughtful design, clear coordination, and a consistent commitment to quality throughout.

Understanding the difference between Interior Architecture and Interior Design and how they function together, changes everything.

One team, one vision:

Seamless Integration

Integrating Interior Architecture and Interior Design with our Architectural, Structural, Civil, and M&E teams, we offer a truly collaborative approach:

- Interior layouts align perfectly with architectural and structural intent
- M&E services are coordinated with interior concepts (lighting, HVAC, tech integration)
- Civil and building fabric considerations support functional and aesthetic goals
- A unified workflow reduces redesigns and keeps projects on schedule

Whether as part of a full building project or as a standalone service, this combined approach ensures that every project is technically robust, visually inspiring, and functionally exceptional.

A Complete Service. A Unified Vision.

The benefits of working with our interiors team:

- Expert guidance on space planning, layouts, materials, lighting and finishes
- Interiors that are compliant, buildable and tailored to how you live, work or operate
- One coordinated team managing technical detail and design detail together
- Cost efficiency through smart structural solutions and informed material choices
- Access to a trusted network of engineers, builders, suppliers and specialist trades
- Enhanced value through interiors that are functional, safe and visually compelling
- A seamless journey from concept to construction, with fewer risks and fewer surprises
